

Fair Work inspectors to make educational visits to Bathurst employers

22 September 2010

The Fair Work Ombudsman will make educational visits to about 60 businesses in Bathurst over the next three weeks.

Fair Work inspectors will doorknock businesses to provide information packs to employers who have entered the national workplace relations system.

They will focus on Bathurst's commercial precinct. This follows educational visits to more than 2000 other businesses throughout NSW earlier this year. Fair Work Ombudsman NSW Director Mark Davidson says the informal visits are aimed at assisting employers to understand changes to national workplace laws, including the introduction of the National Employment Standards and Modern Awards.

The information packs include helpful resources such as fact sheets, templates and Best Practice Guides and provide advice about practical steps employers can take to adjust to the new system.

"We are very serious about our job of building knowledge and creating fairer workplaces and we are strongly focused on ensuring the community understands its workplace rights and obligations," Mr Davidson said.

"The best advice I can give to business operators is to get the basics right and everything else should start to fall into place.

"By the basics, I mean knowing what Award applies to your employees, what the correct classifications for your employees are and what pay rates apply."

The Fair Work Ombudsman has a number of tools on its website - www.fairwork.gov.au - to assist employees and employers to check minimum rates of pay, including PayCheck and Payroll Check.

Small to medium-sized businesses without human resources staff can also ensure they are better equipped when hiring, managing and dismissing employees by using free template employment documentation with step-by-step instructions or accessing a series of Best Practice Guides.
