When you start a new job, you might get told things, or asked to do things that don't seem quite right. Find out about common myths and tips \(www.fairwork.gov.au/find-help-for/young-workers-and-students/myths-and-tips-for-young-workers\) to help you.

Know your rights

There are some things you should find out from your employer as soon as possible. This includes:

- your pay rate
- whether you're full-time, part-time or casual (this affects your hours of work, pay rate and leave entitlements)
- your hours of work
- what your job duties will be
- whether there's an award \(www.fairwork.gov.au/Dictionary.aspx?TermID=2124\) or registered agreement \(www.fairwork.gov.au/Dictionary.aspx?TermID=2034\) that covers your job (this affects your pay rate, hours of work and other entitlements)
- if there's a probation period for your job.

There are minimum workplace rights that can't be taken away from you, including the National Employment Standards (NES). The NES covers types of leave, public holidays and notice if you get fired.

Watch a video about warning signs in the workplace so you know what to watch out for.

A new job can give you a lot of opportunities - try to make the most of it. Check with your employer to see how you're performing and look for ways to improve how you work.

Resolve issues

Issues can occur in the workplace. It's important to deal with them as they arise and talk to your employer if something is making you uncomfortable.
